And all of [these angels] were arranged in orderly camps, banner by banner, as it states, surrounded with myriad angels בֵּיוָן שֶׁרָאוֹ אוֹתָן יִשְׂרָאֵל שֶׁהַם (Song of Songs 5:10). בַּיוָן שֶׁרָאוֹ אוֹתָן יִשְׂרָאֵל שֶׁהַם – When Israel saw that [the angels] were arranged banner by banner, בְּשׁוּיִים דְּנְלִים לְּחָחִילוֹ מְּתְאַוִּים לְּדְנָלִים – they, too, began to desire to be arranged by banners. אָמְרוֹ: אַלְוֹאִי בָּךְ אָנוֹ – [Israel] said: Would it be that we would be arranged according to banners surrounding the Divine Presence like [the angels]!

אָמֵר לָהֶם הַקְּדוֹש בְּרוּךְ הוֹא:

When sublime feelings his heart fill, He is mantled in the colors of his country He stands in prayer, wrapped In a sparkling robe of white. The hems of the white robe Are crowned with broad stripes of blue; Like the robe of the High Priest, Adorned with bands of blue threads. These are the colors of the beloved country, Blue and white are the borders of Judah; White is the radiance of the priesthood, And blue, the splendors of the firmament

"At the behest of our leader Herzl, I came to Basel to make preparations for the Zionist Congress. Among many other problems that occupied me then was one that contained something of the essence of the Jewish problem. What flag would we hang in the Congress Hall? Then an idea struck me. We have a flag — and it is blue and white. The talit with which we wrap ourselves when we pray: that is our symbol. Let us take this talit from its bag and unroll it before the eyes of Israel and the eyes of all nations. So I ordered a blue and white flag with the Shield of David painted upon it. That is how the national flag that flew over Congress Hall came into being." David Wolffsohn Vice President World Zionist Congress

Proclamation of the Flag of the State of Israel

The Provisional Council of State hereby proclaims that the flag of the State of Israel shall be as illustrated and described below: The flag is 220 cm. long and 160 cm. wide. The background is white and on it are two stripes of dark sky-blue, 25 cm. broad, over the whole length of the flag, at a distance of 15 cm. from the top and from the bottom of the flag. In the middle of the white background, between the two blue stripes and at equal distance from each stripe is a Star of David, composed of six dark sky-blue stripes, 5.5 cm. broad, which form two equilateral triangles, the bases of which are parallel to the two horizontal stripes.

"And even though we don't have an exact source for the Magen David, there should be no hesitation about incorporating it in a shul. Within the image of the Magen David is the symbolism that Hashem rules over us completely-above, below and in all four corners of the world. I do not know of any connection to King David, but perhaps we can suggest that it is indeed a fitting connection, since David, through all of his wars placed his faith in Hashem and understood that His dominion extended over heavens and earth and the four corners of the world. The Star of David symbolizes that King David was not afraid of any foreign kings or invading armies, as is alluded to in the Torah" (Iggrot Moshe, Orech Chaim 3:15)

It was taught, "Rabbi Meir used to say, 'How is t'cheilet differentiated from all the colors? Because t'cheilet is similar to the sea, and the sea is similar to the sky, and the sky is similar to the Throne of Glory, as it is stated, "And there was under His feet the like of a paved work of sapphire stone, and the like of the very heaven for clearness," and it is written, "a throne, as the appearance of a sapphire stone."

מסכת מנחות, מג:

רי מאיר אומר מה נשתנה תכלת מכל מיני צבעונין מפני שהתכלת דומה לים וים דומה לרקיע ורקיע לכסא הכבוד שנאמר (שמות כד) ותחת רגליו כמעשה לבנת הספיר וכעצם השמים לטהר וכתיב (שמות כד) כמראה אבן ספיר דמות כסא

Rav Yosef Dov Soloveitchik zt"l, one of the greatest proponents of Religious Zionism in the twentieth century, explains the significance of the Israeli flag in a different, rather novel fashion. We will quote the Rav's idea as it appears in Nefesh HaRav (pp. 99-100), by one of his foremost disciples, Rav Hershel Schachter shlita:

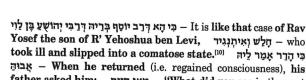

One of Agudat Yisrael's yearly conventions (called "The Great Assembly") was held in a Jerusalem hotel whose roof was adorned with a blue and white flag of Israel. Some of the delegates felt a little uncomfortable with this, but they realized that it would be improper to ask the hotel to remove the flag. Finally, someone suggested that they decorate the roof with the flags of all the countries from which people came to participate in the convention, and so they did. Thus, the [offended] delegates no longer felt uncomfortable having the Israeli flag wave [on their hotel], since it was surrounded by the flags of America, France, England, etc.

When the secular reporters heard about this, they immediately attacked the Agudah. One of the many points they raised was the fact that the British had been so cruel during World War II, refusing to allow Jewish refugees into "Palestine," which was under their control at the time. Their flag (known as the "Union Jack") flew atop their ships in the Mediterranean Sea as they sent boatloads of refugees back to Europe, to certain death. And now, after the establishment of the State, the Union Jack [was needed] to sanction the flag of Israel. How absurd! ...

That year, Rav [Soloveitchik] spoke briefly about the Israeli flag at the Mizrachi convention. [First he pointed out] that there seems to be no eternal halachah regarding flags. All we find [in the Torah] is a temporary ruling that when [the Israelites] traveled [in the desert] they encamped each man by his banner according to their fathers household (see BeMidbar 2:1). Nonetheless, the Rav felt that there was a passage in the Shulchan Aruch that related to the flag of the State.

At the end of Mo ed Kattan (27a-b), the Talmud cites a Tana'itic decree that all Jews should be buried in simple shrouds. The Shulchan Aruch also cites this ruling: "One may not bury the deceased in expensive shrouds, even if he was a leader of Israel" (Yoreh De ah 352:1). [Elsewhere], the Shulchan Aruch quotes Rishonim who say that if a Jew is found murdered, he should be buried as he was found [in his bloody clothes], without shrouds (ibid. 364:4). The Shach (ibid. subsec. 11) explains the reason for this practice: "[If he was killed by a heathen... we bury him as he was found] in order to enkindle anger and take revenge." That is, God will see how this person was buried differently from all others, without the usual shrouds, and that will arouse His mercy [and cause Him to avenge the murder]...

This idea applies to the flag of the State, as well. Towards the end of the War of Independence, the United Nations set a specific date by which [the two sides] could seize territory. [By that date], any piece of land captured by the Jews (verified by raising the Israeli flag on the spot) would remain under Jewish control, and any piece of land in Arab hands would remain outsides the borders of the State... During that period, a great deal of Jewish blood was spilled in an attempt to raise the Israeli flag over large areas of land (in order to acquire them for the fledgling Jewish state). Many fighters sacrificed their lives for no other reason than to raise the Jewish flag. Therefore, the Ray felt that the Israeli flag had - to a certain degree - the status of a murdered Jew's clothing, for it symbolized spilt Jewish blood. And when the flag flies, it arouses divine compassion for the Jewish people.

Yosef the son of R' Yehoshua ben Levi, חלש ואיתנגיד – who took ill and slipped into a comatose state.[10] בי הַרֶר אָמֶר לֵיה אבוק - When he returned (i.e. regained consciousness), his father asked him: מאי חוית – "What did you see in the next world?" אָמֶר לִיה – [Rav Yosef] said to [his father]: עוּלָם יָהְפוּךְ רָאִיתִי – "I saw an inverted world! – הָפּוּךְ רָאִיתִי – The uppermost in this world are below in the World to Come,[11] הַחְתּוֹנִים לְמֵעְלָה – and the lowly in this world are above in the World to Come."(ב) אָמֵר לו – [R' Yehoshua ben Levi] said to [his son]: בְּנִי עוֹלָם בָּרוֹר רָאִיתְ – "My son, you have seen a clear ואָגן הַיכִי הָתָם – R' Yehoshua ben Levi asked further: "And how are we [Torah scholars] regarded there?" בִּי הַיבִי ראיתו אַנן הָכָא – Rav Yosef answered: "Just as we are regarded here, הָכִי אִיתִינֵן הָתָם – so are we regarded there."^[14]

R' Yehoshua ben Levi then asked what they were saying there, and his son replied:[15]

ישְׁמַעְהִי שָׁהַיוּ אוֹמְרִים – "And I heard them saying: אַשְׁרִי מִי שֶׁבָּיוּ לָבֶאן וְתַלְמִוּדוֹ בְּיַדוֹ – 'Fortunate is he who comes here and his learning is in his hand.'^[16] קשָׁמַעְתִּי שֶׁהָיוּ אוֹמְרִים – And I also heard them saying: הָרוּגֵי מַלְכוּת אָין אָדָם יָכוֹל לַעֲמוֹר בִּמְחִיצָתָן — 'Those executed by the government enjoy such an exalted level here that no other person can stand in their enclosure."

The Gemara inquires:

וּמָאן נִינְהוּ – Who are these holy martyrs of whom Rav Yosef speaks? אִילֵימָא רָבִּי עֵקִיבָא וְחֲבֵירָיוּ — If we say that he refers to R' Akiva and his colleagues,[17] משום הרוגי מלכות – is it merely because they were executed by the government that they attained such a lofty level, מוו לא – and for no other reason?! But this would imply they had no other quality that would merit this distinction![18]

The Gemara answers: אַלָא הָרוּגֵי לוד – Rather, Rav Yosef refers to those executed in Lod.[19]
