merd [Moses] uttered.

Jer. 51:5 promise, '[Israel] is not bereft!'"

merit of those who accepted the covenant [the patriarchs]:

The sound of Leah's wail, pounds upon her heart;
her sister Rachel bemoans her children;
Zilpah, slaps her face;
Bilhah, laments with both hands!

What can I do for you, My children? This is My decree!

- ¶ [God's final response:] "Return, perfect ones, to your place of rest. I will indeed fulfill your requests.
¶ I was sent to Babylon because of you, and will return your children from exile."

King 27 starts on page 178

In this kina the prophet Jeremiah meets a woman of unearthly beauty, a personification of Knesset Yisrael. Commentary for this kina begins on page 482.

¶ Then, when the measure of the sins of one [Israel] who is as beautiful as Tirzah, had reached its full, the Arielites [angels] cried out aloud. ¶ [Jeremiah,] the son of Hilkiah came upon, leaving the Temple, a once beautiful woman, now disheveled.

¹ [He said,] "I insist in the name of God and man, that you tell me whether you are a demon among demons,

¶ For you are as comely as one of flesh and blood, but you are as awesome and frightening as only an angel can be.”
or a mortal human.

[She responded,] I am neither a demon nor something or in the world.

I am of the stock of three and seventy-one,
and twelve, and sixty, and one.

¶ "One was father Abraham, and I am a child of the triad of three patriarchs.

¹¹ The number twelve refers to the tribes of the LORD, and sixty ten-thousands [the six hundred thousand Jews who left Egypt], and the seventy-one members of the holy Sanhedrin.¹²

v [Jeremiah responded.] "Heed my counsel and repent, because you are indeed of great consequence."

, Laughter and joy, they behoove you;
no longer should you be called 'wayward daughter'!"

[She responded.] "How can I rejoice and raise my voice proudly?
My babes are given over to the foe!
My prophets are stricken, their [blood flowing]!"

ג "My holy Temple wanders because of my sins.

י My Beloved of yore has fled and flown away.

ל My pleasant abode has been plundered against my will.
How she, who once was filled with people, is now all alone!"

ד The woman entreated the prophet Jeremiah, "Speak to your God on behalf of the tempest-torn, afflicted people, י so that He will answer and say, 'Enough,'
and save me from sword and captivity."

ג [Jeremiah] prayed, entreating his Maker,
י "Most compassionate One, have pity as a father would for his son."
ד [God] shouted, "Woe to the father who expelled his son, and woe, too, to the son who is gone from his father's table!"

ה "Rise, Jeremiah! Why be silent?

ו Go summon the patriarchs, Aaron, and Moses.
ז Let the shepherds come and express lament.
ח Wolves of the wilderness have attacked the sheep."

ט Jeremiah the prophet roared,

י howling like a lion, in the cave of the patriarchs,
כ "Give voice to your tears, ye fathers of the gazelle [Israel]!
ל Your children have lost their way; they are in captivity!"

מ "The Temple lies desolate with no one gathering for festivals,
ו because its comrades have fallen and faltered.
ז May He who supports and sustains bring them back as before.
ח Have mercy upon Zion; its time has come!"
